DESCRIPTION

The housing element 3842552615 protects drive components, guides, and cables on the underside of the Bosch Rexroth HD 2/H transfer system. Sized for workpiece pallets with a 640 mm length and 480 mm width, the enclosure closes off the zone below the conveying level and prevents unintended contact and contamination. The 180° opening angle allows full access to the protected area for service and inspection without disturbing neighbouring modules. Protection above the conveying level is not included and must be planned individually.

- Designed for HD 2/H transfer system, size groups 1 and 2
- Covers the full area below the conveying level - protects drive, guides, and cables
- 180° opening angle for unrestricted maintenance access
- System-matched accessory from the Bosch Rexroth assembly technology range
